CASE honors Marietta College with Gold Award in 2008 competition

Since the inaugural edition of Marietta, The Magazine of Marietta College in the fall of 2006, Marietta College alumni and friends have raved about its content, design and overall professionalism.

Now the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) has provided national recognition for the College's effort through the 2008 Circle of Excellence Awards.

Marietta College's Office of Alumni and College Relations was recently awarded a Gold Award by CASE in the Magazine Publishing Improvement category. The College entered three magazines. Fifty-three entries were judged in this competition, including the Grand Gold Medal winner, Stanford Lawyer from Stanford Law School.

"A Gold Medal from CASE is an appropriate tribute to the creativity, hard work and dedication of our very talented colleagues and to the wonderful story that they have been able to portray in the pages of the magazine," said Hub Burton, associate vice president for Alumni and College Relations. "The support of the administration and of our alumni has been an inspiration and to say that we are truly excited about the future of the publication is the understatement of the year!"

The first two magazines were designed by Tina Ullman '93 and edited by Sherry Beck Paprocki. The two most recent magazines were designed and edited by the College's in-house marketing team of Tom Perry, Gi Smith and Ryan Zundell '93.

Other winners in the category were:

Silver Medals: Furman University, Furman Magazine; Syracuse University College of Engineering, Syracuse Engineer; University at Buffalo-SUNY, UB Dentist.

Bronze Medal: Indiana University-Kokomo, Messenger.
