

Colors, logos, and other brand elements create the emotional link between an organization and its fan base. To draw new fans and players alike, an organization must develop a personality that resonates with the intended audience. This project will explore the various aspects of design that create a strong brand personality with the outcome being a Brand Style Guide for a hypothetical minor league baseball team in Marietta, Ohio.