

In the Fall of 2019, Hannah Garofalo and I had the opportunity to travel to New York City for the American Advertising Federation Conference. Upon our arrival in New York City, we were first able to connect with a Marietta College alumnus and take a tour of Google. The days to follow were spent at the conference, where we sat in on several speakers from Fortune 500 companies and expanded our knowledge on strong branding.