

How did behavioral health programs support family engagement through traumatic events? My capstone research topic was to examine the engagement of families in the lives of students that encounter traumatic and life altering events in their lives. I worked with Life and Purpose Services at Warren Elementary School. I used active qualitative research methods when conducting my research project. I thought that students with active families would have more positive encounters in the school environment.