

The purpose for my study is to highlight the obstacles and detriment that disproportionality in special education has on students in schools today. Disproportionality is the over representation of students within a minority who have a learning disability. My poster will effectively give examples of why disproportionality happens, its effect it has on students, and how teacher leaders can take the initiative and create change for their students and schools.