

Microfilm advertising (MFA) is a kind of film which usually between three to twelve minutes. Compared to traditional advertising, it is a dramatic advertising format with promotional messages spread to consumers. I will do actual microfilm for 12 minutes. The focus product will be a pair of earphones and my story will be telling the story of a relationship between people. The purpose of the research is to know how microfilm support advertising industry.