

This paper is a quantitative analysis around factors that impact civil wars. It is based around the following research question: how does the level of democracy impact the likelihood that a civil war will occur? This leads to results of a logistic regression on the relationship between democracy level and civil war onset date.