

School lunches provide important nutrition that helps a student get through the day and learn, they are especially beneficial to low-income students who may not have other dependable food sources. While in some states and school districts, there are free lunches for all students, in other areas students go into debt paying for lunch. There should be a federal standard creating equity in the accessibility of school lunches.