

This research project explores the experiences that current and previous study abroad students at Marietta College have had while being abroad. This project will be a compilation of primary research answering the toughest questions about studying abroad that go beyond just academics. All research will be presented in a podcast that can be accessible to all students.