

This study examined the behavioral services that supported the academic needs of students who experienced trauma. My student examined ways that play. My study found that play is beneficial because the hands on engagement helps students academically in the classroom. The benefits of this program were addressed throughout the duration of this qualitative study.