

This capstone project will capture the success of the men's basketball program at Marietta College. There will be four main topics discussed in this, those are: success, failure, leadership, and champion. The information will come from an in-depth interview with Head coach Jon VanderWal. Using the video from the interview, past game footage, pictures, and some short interviews with current players, there will be a larger video made to capture the program in a way to bring recruits and more attention to one of DIII most powerful men's basketball programs.
